WORCESTER'S
UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY
IS NOW COMPLETED.

And the delivery of copies to subscribers will commence Jan.
1, 1860. The Dictionary, on extra large paper, and bound in half Turkey morocco, is issued at $7 50 per copy. This edition, unparalleled for typographical beauty and general excellence of execution, by any similar work ever issued from the American press, is published for subscribers only.

The entire work is comprised in one thousand eight hundred and forty-four pages, with introductory treatises on Pronunciation, Orthography, and various subjects relating to the English Language, and to Etymology, and also an appendix containing the usual accompaniments to an English Dictionary.

During the past year, advance sheets of the new quarto have been submitted to the most eminent scholars; and, in accordance with the expressions of approval so freely and generally tendered, we confidently offer it to the public as "THE STANDARD DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE."

We present the following considerations and testimonials in its behalf:

1. The entire work in all its parts is NEW.
2. THE VOCABULARY contains TWENTY THOUSAND words and definitions more than any other English Dictionary.
3. The VOCABULARY of TERMS of the Sciences, Arts,
Professions, and Trades, is especially full and accurate.
4. THE ILLUSTRATIONS are ONE THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED in number.

5. FIVE THOUSAND SYNONYMS, so called, are treated in upward of ONE THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED distinct articles.
6. NO SEPARATE REFERENCE is required either for Synonyms, Illustrations, or Technical Terms, the whole work being symmetrical and consistent.

7. IN ORTHOGRAPHY and PRONUNCIATION it represents the usage of the best English and American writers and speakers.

8. THE IMPARTIALITY of its facts and parties.
9. The Hon. Geo. BANCROFT, LL.D., says: "On questions of orthography I shall make it my standard, allowing myself rare exceptions, or, perhaps, no exceptions whatever."

"The new and authentic etymologies, the conciseness and completeness of the definitions, the nicely with which the different shades of meaning in synonyms are distinguished, and the conciseness and accuracy of the work in all its departments, give it, in my judgment, the highest claim to public favor."

"I can only with the opinion of Mr. Bryant
"Sunshine, May 14, 1859." WASHINGTON IRVING.

The Hon. Edward Everett, in speaking of Worcester's Dictionary, says: "I have, in my possession, the only copy of Dictionaries since their first publication. His orthography and pronunciation represent, so far as I am aware, the most approved usage of our language. His definitions seldom leave anything to doubt."

"His large Dictionary, now in course of publication, will be, in every respect, superior to any one existing of the English language." JOSEPH G. COGGSWELL.

"Aston Library, May 2, 1859."
Professor Charles D. Cleveland, in the "Compendium of American Literature," says: "It is, in fullness, in consistency orthography, and in correct orthography, by no means a doubtless,
of anything of the kind we now have."

"... In fine, the work must take its unchallenged place as far in advance of any previous attempt in this direction, and as necessarily the standard Dictionary of the English language."

FOOTBALLS ON THE BOUNDARY OF ANOTHER
By ROBERT DALE OWEN.
Formerly Member of Congress and American Minister to Naples.
This work is devoted to an inquiry whether occasional inter-ferences from another world in this reality or delusion. It is a history of the phenomena of dreams, visions, and other extraordinary occurrences, and examines the alleged evidences for ghosts, hauntings, and apparitions; referring to the most approved writers of the phenomena of the mind, and to the various systems.
It inquires whether, when we set down the narratives of all ages (including our own) that touch on the marvellous realm of spirits, we are not really dealing with what we are overlooking as phenomena in which we were all engaged.

COMPENSATION, OR, A FUTURE, BY ANNE M.
H. Brewster, 1 vol., 12mo. $1.
"Her story, which we are sure, is admired and enjoyed for its delightful pictures of a social life different from ours in America, its excellent descriptions of scenery, its evidences of extensive and valuable reading, and the clearness of its style. The publisher has printed it beautifully, and it should become a favorite in all cultivated circles." [Evening Bulletin.]
